

New & Noteworthy

Happenings Across The Hamptons

Heidi Klum, Christy Turlington, and Kyle McLachlan are a few of the satisfied clients of Cross It Off Your List, the firm that is fast becoming the answer for people who don't have time to do everything themselves. Now offering its services in the Hamptons, the firm's organizational experts are crossing things off other people's lists in three key areas: organizing, relocation and lifestyle management services. From LA to Montauk and Palm Beach to Paris their clients are top executives, busy moms, single workaholics, and celebrities. Says Klum, "With my busy work and travel schedule, Cross It Off Your List has been a lifesaver. When renovation on my new home was delayed, I needed a place to live and within 24 hours I had a furnished apartment, my things were in storage and I was moved in. When my apartment was ready, Linda and her staff had all of my things out of storage, unpacked and ready for me

CHILDREN'S RIGHTS

Sheila Rosenblum of Southampton can't seem to find enough good causes to lend her time and support to. Having just been honored at the Red Cross Ball, the very successful fundraiser held at Carole and Todd Rome's estate, Sheila continues to work tirelessly as a children's rights advocate, hosting a fundraiser benefitting the foster children of Edwin Gould Services at her home on Friday September 1st from 5:30 - 8:30PM. Proceeds from the silent auction, sponsored by London Jewelers, and 20% of the artwork sales of artist Craig Banks will be donated to the charity. For more information call 212.437.3502 to move right in." More information can be found at www.crossitoffyourlist.com.

Think you love your pet? One loyal estate-section socialite just threw a "Bark-Mitzvah" for her 13-year-old dog last weekend. Some of Southampton's most fashionable pets and their owners were invited to the afternoon fete. Southampton jeweler Jennifer Miller was there to present the Bark Mitzvah Boy with a jewel-encrusted collar to commemorate the occasion. Other friends included "Paley" Bandier, "Sophie" Sirulnick, "Luke and Katie" Witkoff, "Snickers" Tarnopol, "Morgan" Radler, "Sadie" Volpe, and "Goobers" Miller.

On September 14th, Alex Donner, bandleader and regular on the Hamptons social scene, along with Mercedes Ellington, Henry Buhl (another Red Cross honoree), and East Hampton's Ken and Ros Landis, are lending their support to "A Night in New Orleans", a fundraiser to benefit Society of Singers and Jazzmobile, Inc. The masked ball, which will include a performance by New York City Ballet's principal dancers to an original Wynton Marsalis composition, will raise money for a special emergency fund for hurricane victims who are members of the vocal arts community of New Orleans. For ticket information, contact Kate Edmonds Events, 212-366-4447

It's been long in coming, but the Ethan Allen Style Studio has opened its doors at 1054 Montauk Highway in Water Mill (631.726.6510). Owned and operated by Irwin Horwitz and Ed Moscs, who run all the Ethan Allen stores in Suffolk County, the Hamptons outpost has a twist: its intimate setting is more like a design center than a furniture showroom. Everyone who works in the store is an interior designer, and their services are offered free of charge. ♦

Dan Rattiner
Phil Witt | Publisher